PREVIEW TO SUITABLE

Georgia Tech
Honors Program

Suitable

Suitable is a software that allows for increased student engagement with events and programming, tracking of student participation, and the development of co-curricular portfolios and badges. The software creates an interactive experience that gamifies and incentivizes participation. This will help students to develop and articulate skills and experiences that occur outside the classroom in four specific competency areas in the Honors Program, outlined below.

1. Social and Community Building:

The Honors Program is built around the value of connection and seeks to build connections among HP students, faculty, and staff, as well as connections between HP students and the other communities to which they belong. Members of a well-connected community are able to work collaboratively towards common goals while developing bonds of collegiality and friendship.

2. Professional Development and Leadership:

The Honors Program seeks to help students to develop their professional and leadership skills in order to be successful in the classroom, in co-curricular activities, and in the workplace.

We assist in preparing students to understand the world of work and effective work habits, as well as build leadership skills so they can capitalize on their individual and team strengths.

3. Scholarly and Creative Engagement:

The Honors Program builds life-long learners who seek to develop their skills in critical thinking and problem solving. Honors Program students strive to learn about the world around them and contribute to building bodies of knowledge and creativity.

4. Ethical and Civic Responsibility:

The Honors Program strives to build students' social responsibility and encourage ethical behavior in all interactions. Honors Program students are inclusive and engage in actions that benefit the welfare of society and the well-being of others.

The software will launch in the fall semester, so please be on the lookout for informational emails and Canvas posts. We in HLC are greatly looking forward to utilizing Suitable's many features to enhance our programming and facilitate HP student engagement.
